Harm Reduction National And International Perspectives

Harm reduction is a relatively new social policy with respect to drugs that has gained popularity in recent years—especially in Australia, Britain, and the Netherlands—as a response to the spread of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS) among drug users.

Harm reduction: national and international perspectives ... - SAGE Books

Harm reduction challenges international and national laws, and policies that contribute to drug-related harms.

Harm reduction refers to public health tools and practices—such as needle exchange programs or safe sex with condoms—to lessen danger rather than expecting universal compliance to rigid ... Here's how to stop the virus from winning - SAGE Books

Harm reduction stands in stark contrast to a punitive approach to problematic drug use—it is based on acknowledging the reality of drug use while attempting to reduce its harmful consequences to individuals and society. This term, coined about 15 years ago in the UK, has become a policy paradigm increasingly explored throughout most of the industrialized world.

SAGE Books - Harm Reduction: National and International Perspectives

Harm reduction programs accept the reality of drug use while attempting to reduce its harmful consequences to individuals and society. This term, coined about 15 years ago in the UK, ... Harm Reduction National And International Perspectives - SAGE Books

Harm reduction is a relatively new social policy with respect to drugs that has gained popularity in recent years—especially in Australia, Britain, and the Netherlands—as a response to the spread of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS) among drug users.

SAGE Books - Harm Reduction: National and International Perspectives

With the Regional Health Policy Unit in the United Kingdom and the Centre for Health & Social Policy, Pat O’Hare is Founder and Executive Director of the International Harm Reduction Association, editor of the International Journal of Drug Policy, and Executive Director of the Harm Reduction International Conference. He was Director of the NIDA-funded Drug-Free Families & Communities Program from 1993 until 1995.

Pat O’Hare is Founder and Executive Director of the International Harm Reduction Association, editor of the International Journal of Drug Policy, and Executive Director of the Harm Reduction International Conference. He was Director of the NIDA-funded Drug-Free Families & Communities Program from 1993 until 1995.

What is harm reduction? - Harm Reduction International

Harm reduction programs accept the reality of drug use while attempting to reduce its harmful consequences to individuals and society. This term, coined about 15 years ago in the UK, has become a policy paradigm increasingly explored throughout most of the industrialized world.

SAGE Books - Harm Reduction: National and International Perspectives

Harm reduction programs accept the reality of drug use while attempting to reduce its harmful consequences to individuals and society. This term, coined about 15 years ago in the UK, has become a policy paradigm increasingly explored throughout most of the industrialized world.

SAGE Books - Harm Reduction: National and International Perspectives

Harm reduction stands in stark contrast to a punitive approach to problematic drug use—it is based on acknowledging the reality of drug use while attempting to reduce its harmful consequences to individuals and society.

SAGE Books - Harm Reduction: National and International Perspectives

Harm reduction is a relatively new social policy with respect to drugs that has gained popularity in recent years—especially in Australia, Britain, and the Netherlands—as a response to the spread of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS) among drug users.

Harm Reduction International - Wikipedia

Harm reduction is a set of policies and practices intended to reduce the negative effects of drug and alcohol use. It has been practiced in one form or another in most countries around the world over the last 30 years.